PARTNERED ACTIVITIES

H2I INTERNATIONAL | HENT

In 2021, H2i embarked on an exciting new journey, joining an international coalition focused on strengthening and connecting health entrepreneurial ecosystems through knowledge exchange and collaborative practice on a global scale.

Health Entrepreneurship (HENT) is one of three pillars within the broader African Higher Education Health Collaborative, of which H2i is a partner. The HENT Collaborative is made up of ten remarkable partners.

Together, the HENT Collaborative will work to support initiatives driven by multiple innovation hubs across the African continent, enabling entrepreneurs to grow their ventures in the medical health space.

This started with the 2022 Health Entrepreneurship Challenge, a year-long boot-camp training model whose first cohort boasted 16 impressive ventures in the health space from eight countries, selected from 227 applications from more than 500 founders across 20 countries.

HENT

PARTNERS:

FEMSTEM

In 2017, H2i launched its FemSTEM program with the goal to inspire, engage, and celebrate women entrepreneurs.

FemSTEM is our dedicated program focused on fostering an increasingly diverse and inclusive community. We are committed to supporting women and building valuable and diverse connections, and to uplifting women in STEM who are looking to create their own business.

In 2021, we asked women founders how we could further support them. The resounding response was to expand our FemSTEM programming to be year-round, with a focus on one-on-one mentorship from women founders and networking opportunities. As a direct result of this, H2i launched FemSTEM Mentoring in early 2022.

The impact of FemSTEM programming is clearly demonstrated by the rise in the proportion of women-founded ventures in H2i. Since the program expansion in 2021, women-founded companies have risen from 28% to 46% in just two years.
